My Columbia History degree prepares me to...

- Conduct primary and secondary-source research
- Find and evaluate sources, both qualitative and quantitative
- Analyze complex concepts and situations
- Employ evidence to support or refute an argument
- Synthesize information from traditional and electronic sources
- Write clear, organized, and persuasive texts
- Clearly explain and present ideas and information orally
- Command detailed knowledge of a well-defined area of historical study
- Think historically and critically, reflecting on the context, causes, and significance of past events
- Understand and translate across different cultures and perspectives
- Carefully document and cite sources
